

Oliver McGowan Mandatory Training in Learning Disability & Autism

Understanding my Learning Disability, Understanding my Autism and Values Based Practice.

The training is named after Oliver McGowan, whose death shone a light on the need for health and social care staff to have better training. You can find out more about Oliver's Campaign here.

The aim of the Oliver McGowan mandatory training is to ensure that staff working in health and social care receive learning disability and autism training, at the right level for their role. They will have a better understanding of people's needs, resulting in better services and improved health and wellbeing outcomes.

The training will be delivered by the Self-Advocates Training Partnership

The Self-Advocates Training Partnership is a group of disabled people who have come together to co-produce training with health and social care professionals and families.

All our training uses a Social Model of Disability and human rights approach. We work together to build on the strengths in our communities.

The workshops will take place on Zoom

To book your place, join Lancashire and South Cumbria Joint Training Partnership (it is free) here.

Tier 2 - Understanding my learning disability, understanding my autism and values based practice

A workshop co-facilitated with self-advocates exploring learning disability, autism, living with more than one impairment and rights-based support. By the end of the workshop participants will have:

- An understanding of health inequalities experienced by people with a learning disability and or autistic people.
- Identified barriers faced by people to accessing healthcare and how to remove them through reasonable adjustments
- An understanding of the communication needs of people with learning disabilities and autistic people and how best to support people to be heard.
- An understanding that people with learning disabilities and autistic people can have mental and physical health conditions which may be overlooked.
- Discussed the implications of 'diagnostic overshadowing'.
- Discussed the impact of values and culture in practice
- An understanding of legal frameworks; Human Rights Act, Equality Act, Autism Act, Mental Capacity Act underpinning our work.

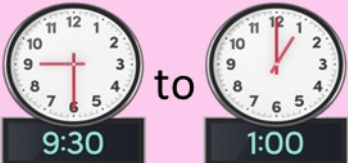

The Tier 2 workshop is suitable for people who have already attended the tier 1 session. If you have previously attended the tier 2 workshops, My Right to Good Physical Health or Law and Ethics you do not need to register for this workshop as it will duplicate some of the material used in those.
