Dear colleagues,

To ensure that community health services for adults can continue to provide for people with the greatest need, the Community Continence Service has changed the provision of incontinence pads (containment products) for adults newly referred to the service. This change commenced from Monday 23 June.

This means:

- The service no longer provides low absorbency pads
- That a maximum of two x pull up pants (special order and authorisation still needed) or three continence pads can be provided in a 24-hour period.

These changes are in direct response to growing demand, rising costs and a static budget. The Continence team will continue to assess patients and provide recommendations as to the number of incontinence pads required. Where this exceeds the pad 'allocation limits', patients will be advised to purchase additional products to 'top up' - most major supermarkets and high street pharmacies sell incontinence pads at a reasonable price.

It is however noted that this may present a financial challenge for some patients, and therefore the continence service will be signposting patients to benefits advice if they are not currently in receipt of financial support.

The changes currently only apply to patients newly referred to the continence service, excluding those in a nursing home bed initially. Work is ongoing to explore the potential future application of these changes to existing patient in receipt of incontinence pads - this will be subject to the approval of a business case and equality impact assessment. Any person that would be affected by future changes will be written to in advance.

Noting the challenges posed with rising demand, we would like to establish a task and finish group in the future to explore how system partners can work together to promote a sustainable approach to providing containment products. If you would like to be involved in such a group, then please drop me an email to express your interest. James Cooke Head of Adult Community Services

Clare's Law encourages anyone with concerns about their current or ex-partner to use their 'right to ask' to check whether they have a history of domestic abuse.

Third parties such as a parent, neighbour or friend can also make an application, but they will not necessarily receive the information about the individual concerned - it may be more appropriate for someone else to receive the information such as the potential victim or another person who is best placed to protect the potential victim.

Working families: get 30 hours of funded childcare – apply now

From this September, 15 hours of funded childcare for working families will expand to 30 hours, meaning eligible working families can apply now (before 31 August) to access 30 hours of funded childcare from September. Children are eligible from the term after they turns 9 months until they reach school age.

If you are already accessing 15 hours of funded childcare for your child you don't need to reapply. Simply continue to reconfirm your details on your GOV.UK account every 3 months and your existing code will update automatically enable you to take up 30 hours from September.

This expansion is designed to support a child's early education development and help families balance work and family life. It's the final phase of the Government's childcare expansion, which could save families up to £7,500 per year.

Apply for your childcare code by 31 August to start using the support from 1 September.
